Rabbi you can not decide who I marry

A couple once came to the Rabbi to get married. After asking a bit about their respective family tree, it became apparent that it would be forbidden that such a union takes place.

After receiving abuse, being called a religious fundamentalist, old fashioned and a few other big words ("How can you stop us from getting married, we love each other."), the Rabbi calmly asked the couple, "Please tell me how you met and why do you think that you should get married?" The girl answered, "We met in India on holidays and we got to talking etc. The next day we were walking down the street and we saw a fortune teller. She told us that we are a perfect couple! And well, we are." "Ok, that's very special," answered the rabbi. "Just one question, why did you go to the fortune teller?"

"Well, we wanted to be sure. These people know things that we do not," they replied. "If a heavenly voice came down and told you right now that this isn't a good match would you listen?" the rabbi cleverly asked. "Of course," said the couple.

"Well that heavenly voice came down on Mount Sinai and told you exactly this fact!"

It is a weird story, but the moral is quite clear. How many times we are not sure what to do, or will this succeed, or how can this happen? If only G-d would tell us. Well He did... Come to the JLI course on Sunday night at the Jewish Centre and find out more.

Warm regards,

Rabbi Shalom White
